EXTREMISM AND VIOLENT CONTENT IN THE ONLINE SPACE: MAKING INFORMED CHOICES

North East Virtual Training Sessions for Parents and Carers

Who are we?

Operating since 2015, Small Steps is an organisation dedicated to reducing extremism via education, compassion, and understanding. We believe in having open and frank conversations in as many places as possible and want to share our insight and expertise with others.

Training Sessions

As part of the Home Office Preventing Radicalisation fund for Local Authorities, Small Steps will deliver 10 virtual training sessions for North East parents and carers between October 2026 and July 2027. Based on specific risks identified within the region, these sessions will focus on Extreme Right-Wing (ERW) risks, as well as other forms of extremism and exposure to violent online content.

Sessions aims

- Increase knowledge & awareness of Extreme Right-Wing (ERW) and its influence within online radicalisation.
- Increased parental ability to intervene early around online harms.
- Provide parents/carers with practical tools to monitor online activity.
- Reduce Prevent referrals linked to online ERW and violence fixation in the medium term (2025 had a 33% increase from 2024).
- Create regional consistency in early intervention safeguarding approaches.
